
IN THE SENATE OF THE UNITED STATES.

JANUARY 22, 1891.—Ordered to be printed.

Mr. DAVIS, from the Committee on Pensions, submitted the following

REPORT:

[To accompany H. R. 11635.]

The Committee on Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 11635) granting a pension to Mrs. Margaret Walker, have examined the same and report:

The report of the Committee on Invalid Pensions of the House of Representatives, hereto appended, is adopted, and the bill recommended to pass.

HOUSE REPORT.

The Committee on Invalid Pensions, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 11635) granting a pension to Mrs. Margaret Walker, submit the following report:

The claimant in this case was an army nurse who served for sixteen months, twelve or fourteen of which she was at the Camden Street Hospital in Baltimore and the remainder of the time at the Jarvis General Hospital, Baltimore. These facts are shown by the affidavit of Josephine R. Guy, and in part also by a letter written in September, 1862, by Dr. John Dickson, the acting assistant surgeon at the said Camden Street Hospital. It is further shown by the affidavit of one Sarah H. Clark, who is the present landlord of the claimant, and also by the affidavits of others, that the claimant is now in her ninety-first year, and that she is dependent for support upon her daughter, who supports her by sewing. Thus the facts of faithful service for more than one year, her advanced age and dependence being established, the committee recommend that the bill, which proposes to give her a pension at the rate of $12 a month from and after the passage of the act, do pass.
